Church volunteer charged in child sex assaults

► Accused came forward to police after allegations were made by High River congregation members ► Local pastor fears alleged incidents will shake trust of worshippers

NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA

Parishioners in Calgary's Baptist churches are in shock after learning that one of their own has been charged with sexually assaulting minors in incidents dating back more than 30 years.

Police revealed Tuesday that Russell Louis Rodman, who currently lives in High River, faces several charges after abuse allegations surfaced at a church in the town and the 58-year-old came forward to police.

Investigators say the alleged assaults took place between 1981 and 1995 while the accused man was serving in volunteer leadership roles at a Calgary Baptist church.

"There was a definite connection between the church and a relationship with the accusing individuals," Det. Stephen Johnston said, adding that the alleged incidents are believed to have taken place at Rodman's home, and involved some of the victims on multiple occasions.

Rodman is charged with two counts of sexual assault and one count each of gross indecency, indecent exposure to a person under 14 and sexual contact with youth by a person in authority.

Church leaders said they were stunned to learn of the accusations.

"I find it disheartening," said Michael Martin, pastor at Western Baptist Church. "When people go to a church, they put their trust in the church... It ruins the name of the church. It ruins Christianity."

Court appearance

► Russell Louis Rodman made his first court appearance in Calgary late last week. Because of a publication ban, police did not release the names of churches where Rodman has been a member.

► Rodman's alleged victims were between the ages of 11 and 14 at the time of the assaults. Police are open to the possibility that there are other victims and ask anyone with information to come forward.

Surge seen in ride-home service business

Hype surrounding Alberta's incoming impaired driving legislation and fears of freezing while searching for a cab have steered some Calgary bar patrons to a third option for getting home.

In fact, ride-home programs like Keys Please have seen a 30 per cent rise in clientele year-over-year, said manager Ginger Greenwood.

"We do get a lot of customers talking about the new law," she said. "We are not trying to take business away from cab companies ► Ginger Greenwood's Keys Please vehicle fleet has been busy in recent months as uncertainty surrounds Alberta's new impaired driving legislation.

... we are simply giving people another option to pre-plan their night."

The new legislation will see enhanced penalties for drivers who provide a blood-alcohol reading over .05 as well as repeat offenders.

While the law will be officially phased in later this year, Greenwood said many people seem to believe it is already in place.

Combine that with frustration from late-night crowds searching for taxis and many are left to search for alternative options or just stay home altogether, she said.

Late last year, city council did vote in support of a program that would see additional taxi licence plates made available for special occasions, like the Calgary

Stampede.

Nevertheless, ride-home programs do provide the added bonus of returning a customer's vehicle home as well.

Matt Edwards with SafeRide Calgary said his group has seen the biggest increase in customers during the week, as everyday workers fear the new legislation will force them to leave their vehicle downtown.

"We think this year will be busy," he said. "This will make or break us."

Faster EMS may not be better

► Study finds faster response times means high-speed driving on roads

Faster EMS response times may not always be better, according to a new study conducted by the University of Calgary.

In a study released Tuesday, research from the University of Calgary's faculty of medicine has found little difference in mortality rate in patients who received an EMS response time over eight minutes.

"We failed to detect a statistically significant difference in mortality between those patients that received a response time of less than eight minutes, versus those who were responded to in over eight," said Ian Blanchard, lead author of the study.

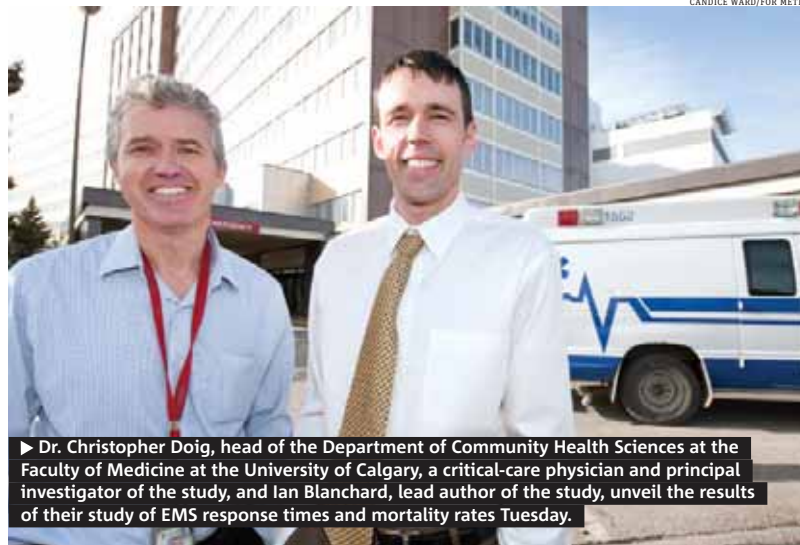

Faster response times means high-speed driving

Emergency

- More than 7,500 life-threatening emergency calls between Jan. 1 and Dec. 31, 2006 were studied.
- In the study, EMS was able to respond to patients within eight minutes, 76 per cent of the time, and out of these patients, 6.4 per cent died.
- For patients who received a response after eight minutes, 7.1 per cent died.

health sciences at the U of C, said the study does not prove response times to be irrelevant, but perhaps calls that require a faster re-

Police weigh ecstasy amnesty program

Calgary police are considering an amnesty program in what could be the latest bid to remove a toxic drug compound from city streets.

Testing results released by Red Deer RCMP on Tuesday found an eighth individual has died in Alberta after ingesting ecstasy laced with a substance known as PMMA.

The other seven deaths have all occurred in the Calgary area and date back as far as last summer.

A member of the Calgary Police Commission, which met Tuesday, had inquired about offering those in possession of the ecstasy a location to drop off the drugs without facing legal reprimand.

A spokesperson confirmed later in the day that the service is considering the idea but few other details were available.

Mother of ecstasy victim seeks to help

► Eight victims linked to toxic compound in Alberta, other cases still being probed ► Reaching out to youth seen as key to preventing future deaths

JEREMY NOLAIS
@METRONEWS.CA

In the days and months after ecstasy claimed her son's life, Brenda Hermann found herself overcome with what she describes as a "grey, grey fog."

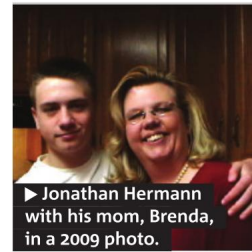

"I didn't know how to get out of it for so long," she said Tuesday.

Jonathan Hermann ingested eight ecstasy tablets while skateboarding at a local park in his hometown of Strathmore last June. Hours later, his heart gave out and he was pronounced dead at Calgary's Foothills Hospital.

Recently, Brenda says she has been forced to relive much of her own heartache as numerous victims, many of them young, succumb to the effects of a toxic compound being used in ecstasy known as PMMA.

But rather than sliding back into a pit of her own despair, Brenda has spent hours actively reaching out to families of those lost in hopes of helping them grieve.

"I know what they're heading into and if I can help them get out of it I will," she said. "No one deserves that. No one deserves to go through that horrible pain and I know what that pain is like."

The determined mother has actively reached out to friends of 16-year-old ecstasy victim Alex Kristof on Facebook, met with the parents of Daniel Dahl, who was placed on life support and later died after ingesting the drug in December, and most recently placed calls to family members of Cody Gorlick, a SAIT student whose death was formally linked to PMMA Monday.

Gorlick's girlfriend Amanda Roger deemed Brenda's efforts admirable.

"It's really traumatic... It's really nice to know people are there, complete strangers or not," she said.

Perils

► Brenda Hermann has already discussed the perils of drug use with members of her church and local youth groups. She is also willing to provide guest presentations at schools and can be reached via email at brenda@slimband.com.

► PMMA is considered a cheaper version of MDMA, a more commonly used compound in ecstasy tablets. The effects of PMMA are realized at a slower rate, leading some users to ingest larger quantities.

Battle of the potholes begins early

Promising forecasts have led city crews to hit the road early in their mission to repair pesky potholes.

Generally, road

FOUNDATIONS OF HOPE

Johanna was born three months premature and with a host of medical issues.

Reyna was three months pregnant with her first child when she was stricken with acute pains in her abdomen and back.

It was another three months before a clinic diagnosed a kidney infection.

In North America, pregnant women with this serious complication are typically hospitalized and given antibiotics intravenously. But in rural El Salvador, where Reyna lives, doctors induced labour. Baby Johanna was born weighing just one kilogram (2.4 pounds) and with a constellation of medical issues — a malformed hip, a collapsed lung and blood clots in her brain.

Today Johanna is four. She is bright and loves to draw, but is not yet able to walk. Her vision is extremely poor. Glasses would help, but her family can't afford them.

Officially in El Salvador, 30 percent of the population lives in poverty. But Reyna and thousands of others are the faces and people behind the sterile statistic. And the real story is about a daily, heartbreaking search for work (which may pay only $4 or less a day), inadequate food and poor health care and schools.

But that story is still being written.

"What makes me optimistic is meeting the people and seeing their hope, even though they live in such vulnerable conditions," says Laura Mata, chief of communications for World Vision El Salvador. Laura's organization is helping to lay the foundations of that future. By sponsoring children like Johanna, Evelyn and Karla, Canadians through World Vision Canada help fund nutrition circles that give women access to nutritious food for their families and preschools get children off to a good educational start. Johanna may receive funding assistance for her glasses, but she will also have a chance to attend children's clubs where she can explore art, music and other activities that nurture her potential.

"These kinds of projects are changing lives," says Laura. "But our country needs help. We can't do it by ourselves."

EL SALVADOR:

Although El Salvador has been slowly recovering from a devastating 12-year civil war that ended in 1992 and its economy is improving, gang-related violence is extremely pervasive. In addition, El Salvador has suffered a succession of natural disasters: in addition to active volcano eruptions, an earthquake in 2001 killed at least 1,200 people and left 1 million homeless. The average per-person income is just US$3,370 (in Canada, it is $41,980).

When bullying moves online, the damage multiplies — fast

► Cyber-bullying can haunt both school-age victims and bullies long after graduation

HEATHER BUCHAN
CALGARY@METRONEWS.CA
FOR METRO CANADA

The Internet has created a new and oftentimes more emotionally damaging type of bully: The cyber-bully — one who can follow you home.

"Before everyone was online with multiple computers at home, bullying stopped at three o'clock," said Monika Wierzbicki of the Canadian non-profit anti-bullying organization Stop a Bully. "There was a sort of buffer. Kids could go home, see their parents, have dinner and to some extent forget about bullying for a while. Now, a person can potentially be bullied non-stop, not just in school."

Katie Neu, 20, knows this all too well. The Listowel, Ont., resident and founder of Bullying Canada, became the victim of intense cyber-bullying when she was a high school student. The relentless hateful messages eventually pushed her to leave school and continue her studies from home.

"I would get bullied at school, then go home, turn on my computer and be victimized there, too," said Neu, who has continued to do college and university courses online. She said even now she still receives hate mail and has negative comments put on the Internet about her.

"Unfortunately, even if the (bully) eventually realizes that what they have done is wrong, undoing the damage can be very difficult."

MONIKA WIERZBICKI,
STOP A BULLY ORGANIZATION

Anonymity

Wierzbicki said the Internet has changed the course of bullying irrevocably. Where traditional schoolyard bullies had to engage in face-to-face contact with their targets, the online world provides bullies with relative anonymity. As a result, bullies feel protected and do and say things they would otherwise not do in person.

In fact, a 2008 University of Toronto study cited on bewebaware.ca found that 75 per cent of the young people who admitted to cyber-bullying someone had never bullied anyone offline or face-to-face.

After-effects

Wierzbicki said that bullying, regardless of the form, can have implications for many years following the incident for both the bully and victim; however, the Internet has compounded the effects because of the immediacy and scope of the medium.

ALL PHOTOS: RYAN TAPLIN/METRO

"Pictures and comments can be posted and seen by (potentially) thousands of people in a matter of minutes," said Wierzbicki, adding that even if a bully repents and removes the offending material, a limitless number of people can have already seen it and downloaded it.

And the offending posts may not just haunt a bully's victims.

"Because employers now have the ability to check up on (prospective employees) by googling them, or checking their Facebook page, any cyber-bullying a person committed has the potential to negatively affect their job prospects," said Wierzbicki. "The Internet can keep a record of previous negative behaviour that can be accessed by anyone who wants to find it. Discovered months or even years later, it can reflect poorly on a person who may in fact have already made amends, changed their behaviour and become a completely different person."

Consequences

According to Media Awareness Network, a Canadian media and digital literacy organization, more kids may be likely to engage in bullying behaviour online because they can't see or hear the effects of their actions and because many forms of social media lack supervision.

As a result of the increase in cyber-bullying incidents, in 2007 Ontario made changes to the province's Safe Schools Act, introducing a new legislation that made cyber-bullying an offence for which a student can be suspended or expelled from school.

On metronews.ca/bullying

— We take a look at anti-bullying legislation across the country.
— Missed a day? Check out our full three-part series on bullying.
— Have a comment? Let us know online, or tweet us @metrocalgary.

How bullies can make it right

Monika Wierzbicki's top three tips on making amends:

- The first step is to remove anything posted online that has caused another person pain or embarrassment.
- Make a personal apology, preferably by phone or email to the victim.
- Help out with an anti-bullying organization at school or in the community.

What is cyber-bullying?

This new form of bullying is when the Internet, cellphones or other devices are used to send or post text or images intended to hurt or embarrass another person. This can include threats, sexual remarks, pejorative labels, making someone the subject of ridicule on forums or posting false statements as fact aimed at humiliation.

Reader response

Re: "My bully, my friend" (Jan. 30). We asked: Should reformed bullies reach out to their victims or leave the past behind?

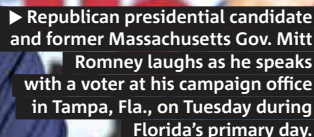

- @Aquaryan1972: I had to let go my pain of the bullies. However, I have not forgiven the adults who ignored my pleas for help
- @redsaidfred: If a bully wants to make amends and the victim is willing, why not? Sounds like a #happyending
- @laurynzmm: I had a childhood bully apologize to me many years after
- @onijoseph: it depends if victims consent to bullies contacting them.
- @unconvmummy: Absolutely but skip the hey bro arm punch! An apology via email or note goes a long way towards closure.
- @anitaelizar: Not everyone can forgive their bullies.

Via Facebook: TJ Freeze: It's good to first ask qualifying questions, so that they don't turn into an internet bully too lol. I'm glad you two patched it up! :D

Re: "Girl-style bullying vs. boy-style bullying" (Jan. 31). We asked, What's more hurtful — social alienation or physical bullying?

- @acidmiasma: Physical bullying is more hurtful. Social aspect usually the hidden motive, boys or girls.
- @jme_morin: Social & physical bullying are both equally hurtful. A combo of the two is worse.
- @markyeg: social alienation
- @kirkschmidt: through either means, the emotional impact is hard to shake, and never fully leaves. #BulliedNerd
- @WalterRogers1: All methods of bullying are not acceptable
- @rjperry61: As a principal I found dealing with physical bullying far easier than psychological bullying! Both happen to and by boys and girls
- @LiannePerry: That's a really odd question. Who can answer for everyone? We are individuals, all affected differently. #Bullying
- @inuk37: Bullying is bullying — abuse is abuse

If you're reading this article on your Android phone, then you're more likely to have sex on a first date, according to new survey results released Tuesday by Match.com.

The survey was done for the international dating site to look at the dating habits of single men and women of various ages across Canada.

Between Oct. 13 and Oct. 15, 2011, 1,068 Canadians were surveyed on everything from whether they have dated someone in the workplace to drinking alcohol on a first date — and at the end of the survey, they said whether they use an iPhone, Android or BlackBerry smartphone.

It turns out users of Google's Android phones are apparently wilder than other smartphone users.

Sixty-two per cent of Android singles said they have had sex after a first date, compared to 57 per cent of iPhone users and 48 per cent of BlackBerry users. But iPhone users are more likely to wait one day to reach out after a first date, whereas Android and BlackBerry users will wait after two to three days.

Kimberly Moffit, Match.com psycho-therapist, said the survey shouldn't be taken too seriously, but it can open a window into people's dating habits.

Ottawa sex therapist Sue McGarvie said BlackBerry users tend to fit the corporate, conventional stereotype.

"They tend to be a little more traditional in terms of their dating approach."

Shafia son to appeal conviction in 'honour killing' case

The lawyer for Hamed Shafia says his client has filed notice to appeal his first-degree murder conviction in the deaths of four family members.

Patrick McCann says Hamed Shafia, 21, has taken the first step by filing an inmate's notice to the Court of Appeal for Ontario.

During the three-month trial in Kingston, Ont., the Crown alleged the murders were carried out to restore the honour of the Montreal family after the daughters tried to resist their parents' strict control.

Shafia and his parents Mohammad Shafia, 58, and Tooba Yahya, 42, were each found guilty of four counts of first-degree murder on Sunday in Kingston.

They were given automatic life sentences with no chance of parole for 25 years.

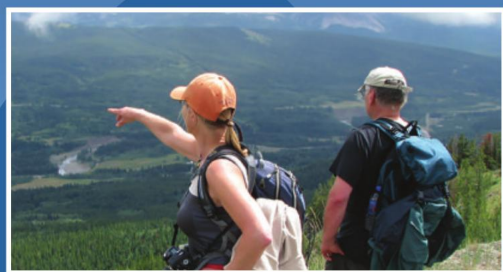

In Ottawa, the Afghan Embassy released a statement condemning the murders as "a heinous crime against humanity." The Shafias originally came from Afghanistan.

Clinton: Syria won't be a Libya

▶ But Russia fears military move

Will Syria be another Libya? Definitely not, says U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton.

Clinton told the UN Security Council on Tuesday that United Nations action to end the bloodletting in Syria would be different from NATO-led efforts in Libya that ousted Moammar Gadhafi.

"I know that some members here may be concerned that the Security Council is headed toward another Libya," Clinton said, referring to Russia's refusal to back measures against Syria.

Russia is emerging as a key player in international efforts to stop the bloodshed.

It worries that a draft measure before the Security Council, could lead to military action and regime change.

▶ Call it a thank-you demonstration: Crowds shout slogans and carry pictures of Syrian President Bashar Assad in front of the Russian Embassy in Beirut. Russia says it will use its Security Council veto to block any resolution threatening Syria with military intervention, and the demonstrators are expressing their gratitude. Meanwhile, in Syria, government forces took back control of the eastern suburbs of Damascus after a startling advance by rebel soldiers. But the fact the rebels made it to the doorstep of Assad's power was a dangerous development for the regime.

Baird to Canucks: Get out of Syria

It's time for Canadians to get out of Syria — and fast.

That was the message from Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird on Tuesday.

He said the embassy in Damascus, with a skeleton staff, is doing what it can to help Canadians escape.

Canadian officials have made thousands of phone calls to Canadians in Syria, urging them to leave and offering what help they can. Baird said since Dec. 15, about 300 Canadians have told Foreign Affairs they have left.

While the Damascus embassy is still open and limited services are available through an honorary consul in Aleppo, there are problems outside those cities, Baird said.

Europe cold snap hits

- At least 58 Europeans have died
- Temps plunged as low as -27 C

Dozens of homeless people have died in an Eastern Europe cold snap, and some analysts blame a Soviet-era legacy of viewing the homeless as those who need to be punished instead of helped.

At least 58 people have died overall in the past week, while hundreds have sought medical help for hypothermia and frostbite. Snow and ice have disrupted traffic, power and led to the closure of schools.

Ukraine has been among the hardest-hit countries. As many as 30 people have died on its snow-covered streets, in hospitals and in their own homes in the past four days. Authorities said most of the victims were homeless.

Ukrainian authorities have set up hundreds of heating centres across the country — large green or beige tents — in which the homeless can get warm and are offered food, hot tea and coffee. Still, more than 540 people have been hospitalized with hypothermia and frostbite, Ukrainian health officials said.

Hospitals were instructed to refrain from discharging homeless patients — even if treatment was finished — to save them from the cold, said Svitlana Tikhonenko, spokeswoman for the Health Ministry.

Pavlo Rozenko, an expert on social policy with the Kyiv-based Razumkov Centre, said that Ukrainian authorities suffer from the Soviet legacy of viewing the homeless as alcoholics, drug addicts and do-nothings who need to be punished and locked away.

"The country doesn't know yet how to take care of its homeless," Rozenko said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RIM's cartoons criticized

► Characters were based on input from the company's Twitter followers

Four cartoon superheroes in a one-off information graphic had BlackBerry-maker Research In Motion on the defensive Tuesday, as some critics labelled RIM's effort to describe its users as "lame" and "embarrassing."

The Waterloo, Ont.-based company was downplaying the lighthearted take on its loyal smartphone users after the graphic — associated with RIM's "Be Bold" campaign — took an ugly turn on social media as some criticized it for being juvenile.

"This infographic is just intended to be a bit of fun," the company said on its Inside BlackBerry blog on Tuesday.

However, by that point some technology blogs and BlackBerry users had already misinterpreted the superheroes as part of a new advertising campaign.

RIM unveiled the characters in a graphic that broke down its user base into four market segments — naming each after a superhero.

The spunky Gogo Girl was used to describe the users who consider themselves achievers. The more daring Max Stone characterized the adventurous types.

Justin Steele is intended to represent the "advocate," ready to stick up for his friends and Trudy Foreal is the "authentic" who is not afraid to call it as she sees it.

The cartoons led to a decidedly negative response on social media websites, with some noting the characters looked like they were designed to market to children.

CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Review suggests split of top RIM roles

After having already replaced top executives Jim Balsillie and Mike Lazaridis, Research In Motion says a review of its corporate governance has concluded that the roles of co-CEO and co-chairmen formerly held by the pair should be split.

The findings of the review, which had been encouraged by an activist shareholder group about a year ago, were released late Monday, just over a week after the company had already replaced the two men.

Activist shareholder Vic Alboini, who pushed for corporate governance changes at RIM, said the report is "moot" given the leadership changes happened before it was issued.

But RIM was able to head off speculation and "snuff out" uncertainty by making the executive changes and then putting out the report, added Alboini, chief executive of Toronto-based Jaguar Financial Corp.

Eurozone unemployment hits high

Unemployment across the 17 countries that use the euro ended 2011 at a record high, official figures showed Tuesday, a day after EU leaders acknowledged they would have to boost economic growth with the same urgency that they had shown in combating their nations' debts.

Eurostat, the EU's statistics office, said the 10.4 per cent unemployment rate in December was unchanged at its highest level since the euro was launched in 1999, as November's was revised upward from a previous estimate of 10.3 per cent.

Unemployment has been steadily rising over the past year — in December 2010, it stood at 10 per cent — largely because of Europe's debt crisis, and compares badly with the U.S., where unemployment stands at 8.5 per cent.

Samsung dealt blow in battle with Apple

Samsung took a hit in its battle against arch-rival Apple on Tuesday, when the European Union announced it will investigate whether it is illegally trying to hinder competitors, while Germany blocked sales of some of its tablets.

Samsung Electronics and Apple Inc. are engaged in a strategic war over patents in many countries across the world as they try to draw market share away from each other.

The EU's antitrust watchdog thinks the South Korean company may be overstepping the bounds, however, and launched a formal investigation of whether Samsung is using lawsuits over key patents on 3G wireless technology to hinder competitors — including Apple.

In Germany, an appeals court ruled in favour of Apple in a separate case, saying Samsung could not sell its Galaxy Tab 10.1 or the Galaxy Tab 8.9 in the country because they too closely resembled the iPad2, in violation of unfair competition laws.

Canadians need to prioritize retirement cash: BMO

As pensions come under increased pressure from corporate and public-sector cost-cutting, Canadians need to place a higher priority on saving for retirement, says a new report from the Bank of Montreal.

It says the dwindling number of defined-benefit pension plans means more retirees don't have a guaranteed level of retirement income.

"An obvious reason behind this phenomenon is the reluctance of employers to be their employees' retirement income guarantors: In times of low interest rates, uncertain market returns and increasing longevity, the risk is simply too high," said Tina Di Vito, head of the BMO Retirement Institute.

As a result, more Canadians must rely on their own ability to save and invest.

At the same time, Canadians are not placing high priority on a good retirement plan, instead tending to focus on salary and flexible work arrangements, the report says.

The BMO report suggests that more than half of those surveyed could not identify the "must-have features" they would include if they were able to design their own workplace pension plan.

Questions about coming changes to government-sponsored plans have resurfaced since Prime Minister Stephen Harper delivered a speech last week at the World Economic Forum about the potential impacts of an aging population on Canada's economy.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

GDP down in November

Statistics Canada reported Tuesday that real gross domestic product actually shrank by 0.1 per cent in November, following zero growth in October.

The surprising weakness — analysts had expected a 0.2 per cent pickup — brings economic growth over the last three recorded months to a snail-paced 0.7 per cent.

Analysts noted that most of November's weakness was due to one sector — oil and gas extraction, in part due to temporary maintenance shutdowns — but also pointed out there was not enough strength elsewhere in the economy to fill the gap.

Opposition critics called on the government to hike spending rather than seek further savings in an effort to balance the budget.

WATCHING THE SUPER BOWL, NO QUESTIONS ASKED

JUST SAYIN' ...

METRO

Like 40 or 50 million North American males, I'm an expert on the Super Bowl, the U.S. football championship so big that, like a Rocky movie, it needs to be described using Roman numerals.

As Sunday's game draws near, more and more people come to me with their questions, such as: "Paul, why don't you get a life and do something worthwhile on Sunday instead of sitting in front of the TV like a zombie for nine hours watching former Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw caper and jibber like the evil clown in IT?"

Questions like that.

So, to be even more helpful, I've compiled a list of MEFAQs (most frequently asked questions) to go along with the MVPs and PATs and other acronyms that baffle civilians.

"Q: This year's Super Bowl is being played in Indianapolis. Where is Indianapolis? A: Nowhere."

Q: How old do you have to be to get invited to be the halftime act at the Super Bowl? A: Older than dirt. Like Madonna, who will perform this year's atrocity. Or Elton John, who has made it clear he would never do it, even if asked. Which he wasn't.

Q: Why are the quarterbacks always called "Tom Brady" and the cornerbacks always called "Prince Amakumara"? A: Tradition.

Q: What number is Super Bowl XLVII? A: Why, it's XLVII, of course.

Super Bowl ads are usually more interesting than the game itself. For instance, this year Honda resurrects Ferris Bueller.

Q: How come Matthew Broderick doesn't look a day older than he did 26 years ago, the first time around? A: There's a rumour going around he's part of the same lab experiment that produced Wayne Newton and Justin Bieber. Too bad it didn't work on Madonna.

Q: What is "clock management"? A: Each team has a bunch of time-outs they can invoke at any time during the game. The team that's losing, using an artful combination of time-outs, incomplete passes and fake injuries, can extend the final two minutes of the game for what seems like forever. That's why it's called the two-minute warning.

Q: How many people watch the Super Bowl. A: Thirty billion.... What?

Q: What is tailgating? A: Drinking way too much and throwing up in the parking lot before the game even starts.

Q: This year's Super Bowl is being played in Indianapolis. Where is Indianapolis? A: Nowhere.

Q: So who's going to win on Sunday? A: I am because I get to sit in front of the TV for nine hours ... etc.

Q: Who will be the MVP? A: Three-to-one on Tom Brady over Prince Amakumara. Tradition is a big factor.

If Dane DeHaan isn't already a familiar face — and not just because of his resemblance to Leonardo DiCaprio — just give it some time.

While fans of HBO's True Blood might already be aware of DeHaan, the 24-year-old Pennsylvania native has an impressive slate of upcoming titles hitting theatres over the next year. And he better get ready.

"I don't know that I do spend a lot of time preparing myself for stardom," DeHaan says with a laugh. "I try to just remind myself how lucky I am, and I'm

Dane DeHaan is getting used to comparisons to Leonardo DiCaprio

► DeHaan Quote: "I think that if I was going to have to be compared to one person who was once a young actor, I might pick Leonardo DiCaprio anyways. I think he did some of his most amazing work when he was younger."

► Dane DeHaan is set for a big breakout year with his work in Chronicle.

just doing what I've always loved to do. I've never wanted to be famous, I've only ever wanted to be an actor, and for me that is so much fun that I just look forward to that, and everything else is a really great side-effect of that. I haven't really reached a certain point where I lose a ton of my privacy or anything. So when someone comes up to me and tells me they really like me, I just say thank you."

Of course he says that now. We'll check in with him in another 12 months.

What's on the slate for 2012?

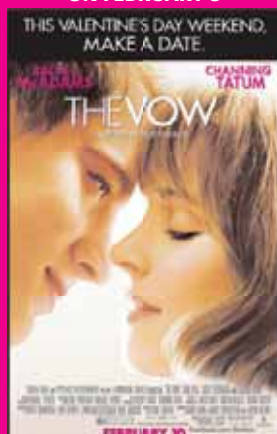

DeHaan will appear in Prohibition-era drama Kill Your Darlings, starring as Lucien Carr opposite

Hardy, Gary Oldman, Guy Pearce and Shia LaBeouf, as well as the Place Beyond the Pines opposite Ryan Gosling, Bradley Cooper and Eva Mendes. And next month he heads to New York to film writer-director John Krokidas' Beat Generation drama Kill Your Darlings, starring as Lucien Carr opposite

Daniel Radcliffe's Allen Ginsberg.

Before all of that, though, he stars in Chronicle, an inventive, found-footage-style science fiction film about a trio of high schoolers whose encounter with a mysterious buried object leaves them with awesome telekinetic powers.

What makes that hero super?

IN FOCUS

RICHARD CROUSE
SCENE@METRONWS.CA

What does it really take to become a superhero?

Take, for instance, the lads in this weekend's Chronicle. After uncovering a mysterious crater they develop telekinesis, flight and invulnerability all without the aid of butlers named Alfred, secret identities or spandex suits.

They're just ordinary guys with extraordinary powers. Civilian superheroes, if you will.

But they're not the first everyday movie characters to make the leap (sometimes over tall buildings) to become superheroes. The flickers are filled with stories of regular folks who become crusaders — some with extraordinary powers, and some without.

In Defendor, Woody Harrelson plays a man whose rich inner life spills out into his real life. By day he is dead-end-job Arthur, but by night he is Defendor, a masked superhero do-gooder. His task? To clean up the streets of Hamilton, Ont.

Speaking in comic book clichés — "Look out termites," he says, "it's squishin' time!" — and with a duct tape "D" on his chest, Defendor and his homemade arsenal of weapons patrols the streets looking for crime to prevent. He's a bit delusional, but his heart is in the right place.

"Who writes your dialogue?" asks a bad guy, "Spiderman?"

"No, I do it myself," he answers innocently, before teaching the guy a lesson he won't soon forget.

Based on a wild indie comic of the same name by Mark Millar, Kick-Ass tells a couple of intertwining stories. First up is Dave Lizewski (Aaron Johnson), a fanboy who creates a superhero alter ego called Kick-Ass as a way to boost his self-esteem.

In life he says his only superpower is being invis-ble to girls, but when he dons the suit he becomes... only marginally more super.

His exploits, however, grab the attention of Big Daddy (Nicolas Cage) and Hit Girl (Chloë Moretz), a slightly psychotic father-and-daughter team of masked (and in Hit Girl's case, wigged) avengers who admire Ass's style and moxie.

Defendor and Kick-Ass don't have superpowers, but they do have cool costumes and the right attitude. That places them alongside other characters that helped redefine what it takes to be a superhero, the better-known movie heroes Batman and Iron Man.

► House arrest is definitely o-vah: Actress spotted 'going to the restroom with a male companion on numerous occasions in a short amount of time'

It's been a slow week here. Maybe everyone's playing nice and dressing demurely for awards season. Or maybe they're holed up in faraway tropical lands that don't grant visas to mortals. Either way — if a tipsy starlet falls in a bar and no one is there to hear it, we're still bored.

But then, Lindsay Lohan went outside, and it was good.

Although she was only drinking water in the lounge — give it up Lohan, the Academy isn't watching — she did seem to be enjoying something, reports RadarOnline.

Kissing a girl

We suspect that most people who would enjoy seeing Ashley Greene and Olivia Wilde make out won't be seeing their new film together, Butter.

But make out in it they do, and so we present you with this quote from Greene's interview with Lucky magazine. You're welcome:

"It wasn't that awkward. It's the same idea as having to kiss a male co-star and it's not real.

Olivia is such a cool chick and very professional. So we were just messing around and cracking up in between scenes, and it ended up being really fun."

Drake wants to play Obama

Drake is looking to get back to his acting roots, and he has one particular role in mind: U.S. President Barack Obama.

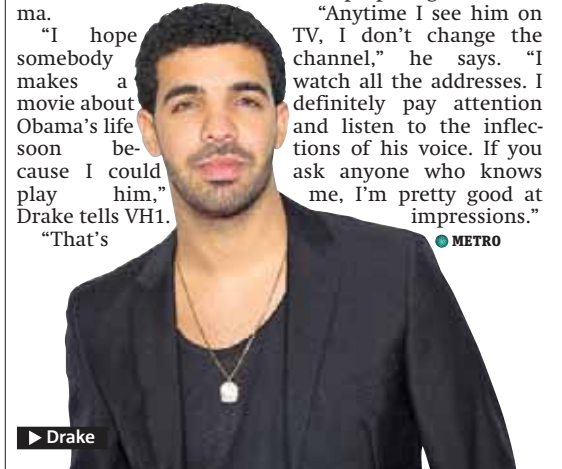

"I hope somebody makes a movie about Obama's life soon because I could play him," Drake tells VH1. "That's the goal."

And it's a serious goal, apparently, as the 25-year-old rapper has already been preparing.

"Anytime I see him on TV, I don't change the channel," he says. "I watch all the addresses. I definitely pay attention and listen to the inflections of his voice. If you ask anyone who knows me, I'm pretty good at impressions."

The best Caribbean hot spots

Definitive Caribbean.com offers its picks for everything from beaches to spas to music

For the beach: Antigua and more

When you think of the Caribbean, we know what comes to mind: a gorgeous white sand beach. And rightly so. Many of the best hotels are on prime beach front, or better still, there are beaches that are still wild and remote. There tend to be two distinct coastlines to most islands: the calm Caribbean side and rougher Atlantic side. If you are looking for a lively Caribbean beach resort you'll need to aim for somewhere like Antigua, Barbados, Jamaica or the Dominican Republic. For somewhere more laid back, Anguilla's striking white beaches are hard to beat and many of the smaller islands have beach charm aplenty.

For romance: Hermitage Bay, Antigua

The Caribbean is a wonderfully romantic place to get married (As if you couldn't tell by the photos). And it's easier than ever; regulations have loosened up in the past few years. Now in many islands you only have to be resident for two or three days before you can get married. Many hotels offer a wedding service in their grounds with ceremonies under an arbour or on the beach. Alternately, you might opt for the privacy of a tropical villa and garden. Our top pick is the Hermitage Bay Antigua, a low key and extremely elegant small hotel with a magnificent beach-front setting in a secluded west-facing bay. It has just 25 large and very private suites, ranged in leisurely fashion along a superb beach and across the hillside behind.

For a spa: Cap Juluca, Anguilla

Fancy a massage with a sea view, or some open-air reflexology?

Many of the leading hotels in the Caribbean now have serious spas — not just a few treatment and beauty rooms, but full-service operations led by leading spa companies, including Shambhala, Aveda, Molton Brown and ESPA.

You'll also find holistic activities such as meditation, yoga, Tai Chi and Pilates.

Try the Cap Juluca, set on its own superb beach in the west of Anguilla. It's one of the Caribbean's most famous and best-loved hotels, has a Wellness Centre, and includes Moorish-style villas. Or the BodyHoliday at LeSPORT is an upbeat resort hotel tucked into its own attractive cove at the northern tip of St Lucia.

For music: Jamaica, St. Vincent, Grenadines, Tobago

The Caribbean people are uniquely inventive when it comes to music. There is almost a different rhythm for every island. Reggae, merengue, calypso, salsa (in different versions from Cuba and Puerto Rico), compas, zouk and soca. Some islands have more than one, but almost all are lively, fast and full of explosive joy.

Check out our website for a list of the year's top gigs, island by island. Among the highlights: February is Reggae Month in Jamaica, March brings the SVG Blues & Rhythms Festival to St. Vincent and the Grenadines and April finds the Tobago International Dance Festival

Saving money on the slopes

► Here are tips on shopping around and timing your next ski or snowboarding trip to get the best deals on equipment, lift tickets and lodging

Gear Head

Preparing for a trip to the snow can be daunting, especially for a novice trying to amass all the equipment, from skis, boots and poles — or a board and boots — to goggles and a jacket.

Start by repurposing things you already own: thermals, your heaviest winter jacket, a hat, gloves and sunglasses. Ski-specific clothing is rarely a necessity, though insulated, waterproof pants substantially boost the fun factor. Borrowing from friends can work well, if you know someone your size.

For equipment, bear in mind that even many experts rent their skis, boots and poles if they don't get to the snow more than a couple times each season. You can save 20 per cent or more on rentals by reserving equipment in advance from your resort, says Vail Resorts Inc. spokeswoman Kate Lessman.

Reserve online at rentskis.com, skibutlers.com or your resort's website.

Food bill

Staying in a place with a kitchenette that's not right on the mountain can cut your lodging costs in half, Justin Blackburn of ski-blog.com says, while stashing trail mix, peanuts or candy bars in your backpack each morning can cut your snack bill by two-thirds, compared with ski lodge prices. For lunch, Surette likes to tuck a peanut butter and jelly sandwich into her pocket because it tastes fresh regardless of temperature.

► Hitting the slopes can be a pricey proposition. But with a bit of planning, you can save some big coin.

Getting a Lift

With lift tickets running $60 or more per weekend day for adults, it pays to research discounts. Check out websites including liftpia.com, lifttickets.com and getskitickets.com. You can also peruse Craigslist or inquire with a local ski club to see if someone that lives near you is selling tickets.

Season passes are often less expensive, especially if you buy in early. But that's almost always before the snow starts to fall so pencil out the cost of a pass with only minimum usage to make sure you're getting a deal. It's often more cost-effective to buy three-day or four-day passes, even if the discount is more modest.

Lodging logistics

For the best rates and selection, plan several months in advance.

Lessman says the best prices are typically available from summer through late October.

And Blackburn notes that your money will go much further in some towns than others; he estimates that two days at Loveland, Colo., cost about the same as one day at the highest-end Colorado resorts.

Chipotle kicks it up a notch

► New York-based Elizabeth Karmel, a grilling and Southern foods expert, shares her recipe for Chipotle Chicken ► Heat of meat is balanced by a cool orange, jicama and mango slaw

The secret ingredient is mayonnaise!

The first time anyone told me that, I thought I was going to faint or laugh out loud.

Fast forward to a trip I took to Oaxaca, Mexico, during the February festival season. At each neighbourhood gathering, the women brought out numerous platters and bowls of home-made food.

My favourite was a pit-fired chicken dish that had been marinated in a thick chipotle mixture.

I asked our guide, Mexican food expert Susana Trilling, if she could find someone who would let me come to their home and show me how to make this dish. The next day we went to the home of the village's best cook.

She had everything set out on the counter for the dish — chipotles in adobo, onions, limes, chicken thighs and mayonnaise!

As we made the marinade, I realized how smart the mayo was.

You can add a lot of flavour to mayonnaise and it stays suspended. Traditional marinades tend to separate. Because the flavours are spread evenly through the marinade, the food you are flavouring gets a more intense and consistent flavour. The mayonnaise also tempers any harshness.

The chicken not only was delicious and memorable, but taught me a great cooking lesson. Today, I frequently use mayonnaise as my "secret" way to impart flavour.

Chicken with Slaw

► This recipe serves eight.

Chipotle Chicken Preparation:

1 In blender, combine chipotles with adobo sauce, white onion, jalapeno, cilantro and lime juice. Add pinch of salt. Blend until smooth. Transfer to a large glass or stainless-steel bowl. Fold in 500 ml (2 cups) of mayonnaise. Taste and adjust seasonings. If it is too spicy, add more mayonnaise.

2 Add chicken pieces, turn to coat, then cover bowl and marinate in refrigerator for 2 to 4 hours, turning occasionally.

3 Heat oven to 160 C (325 F). Set a metal rack over a rimmed baking sheet. Remove chicken from refrigerator and place bone-side down on the rack. Roast until breast meat near bone registers 74 C (165 F) and thigh meat registers 83 C (180 F), 45 minutes. If you don't have a meat thermometer, cook until no longer pink and the juices run clear.

4 Use tongs to carefully transfer chicken to a platter to rest for 5 to 10 minutes before serving. Serve with wedges of lime and mango slaw.

Cool Orange, Jicama and Mango Slaw Preparation:

1 Slice off top and bottom of jicama, then carefully peel it. Use a box grater to grate jicama. In a medium bowl, toss grated jicama with the juice of 1 of the limes.

2 Use a paring knife to trim off the tops and bottoms of each orange, then cut off the remaining skin. One at a time, hold peeled oranges in a cupped hand over the bowl of jicama to catch juices. Cut each orange section between membranes to make individual sections, adding them to jicama.

3 When you have cut all the sections, squeeze leftover membranes to extract as much of the juice as possible. Toss well, then mix in mangoes.

4 Arrange in a bowl or on a platter. Garnish with whole cilantro leaves and a light dusting of cayenne pepper, if desired. Cut remaining lime into wedges for serving with the slaw.

Parlez-vous français for real?

► Are you bilingual? ► What makes you sure that you are or you aren't? ► Make it clear during the job search

TALENTEGG.CA

How much of another language do you have to speak or write to be considered bilingual?

• Maya Meyouhas, general manager of Sweetspot Quebec, says that "in Quebec, where most people speak at least two languages, I would consider someone bilingual if they can just as easily communicate (speak and write) in one language as they can in the other."

• Grégoire Holtz, French professor at the University of Toronto, believes bilingualism means being as comfortable in one language as in the other, though you may sometimes hesitate or struggle to translate a thought. Bilingualism also demands a level of understanding where the other language's humour or subtleties are concerned.

• Françoise Mougeon, associate principal of academics and research at Glendon College at York University, feels that one needs to reach "maximum efficiency" and "a thorough command of the language" in order to succeed in all forms of communication.

Glendon students are tested on this very notion; students who apply for a certificate in bilingual excellence must complete a bilingual written test focusing on their weaker language before advancing to an oral interview in which students must speak in both languages.

Is there a way to prove you're bilingual to an employer?

"The best way to prove it is during the interview," Maya says. "If bilingualism is important, the employer will communicate with you (test you) in both languages — they'll know quickly enough if your language skills are right for the position."

When Christopher applied to be a TA at the University of Ottawa, he was asked to share a copy of his high school diploma (he studied extended French) and university transcripts, which highlighted his minor in French. When working as a teller at the National Bank of Canada in Ottawa, his language skills were put to the test, but he was asked only one question in French. The bilingual demand varies with the job.

Maya adds another place where you can really shine: "If the job posting is in French (or if the company is based in Quebec), send your CV and/or cover letter in French."

MARISA BARATTA IS AN EDITOR AND FREELANCE WRITER WHO SPECIALIZES IN HEALTH AND NUTRITION, THE ENVIRONMENT, AND HUMAN AND ANIMAL RIGHTS.

TALENTEGG.CA IS CANADA'S LEADING JOB SITE AND CAREER RESOURCE FOR STUDENTS AND NEW GRADUATES

What about my resumé?

If looking to indicate your bilingualism on your resumé, Maya advises against use of the word "bilingual," as it's too vague. It's best to be honest about your level of comfort and knowledge in both languages. After all, your employer isn't the only one who will suffer should you be asked to lead a presentation or write a report in a language you don't know well enough.

"Specify instead your functional/good/strong/excellent written and/or verbal communication skills in French and English," she suggests. This shows your employer how well you know both languages and, what's more, it showcases honesty: and what employer doesn't love that virtue?

WHEN WORKPLACE DISMISSALS GET DIRTY

► Tumultuous terminations have been dealt in different ways, but recent case shows laws are tightening up

WORKPLACE LAW

DANIEL LUBLIN
DAN@CANADA
EMPLOYMENTLAWYER.COM
TWITTER: @DANLUBLIN

It is one of the most important concepts in workplace law — but it is not even clear how it applies.

Since 1997, when the Supreme Court presented Canadian workplaces with the Wallace decision, employers have had an obligation to play nice and behave well at the time of dismissal, or face paying additional “bad faith” damages to a former employee. As the Court reasoned, employees were particularly vulnerable at the time of dismissal and in need of additional protection.

But in the landmark decision in Honda nearly 11 years later, the Supreme Court considerably rewrote its own law. In that case the Court found that, unless there was evidence of some actual or physical harm stemming from a dismissal, employees should no longer be compensated for their mistreatment. Many employees were left shaking their heads and since this time, it has been unclear what, if any, damages they should receive if they are dismissed “in bad faith.” Fortunately, a recent case seems to clarify the law.

When Sergio Coppola was dismissed from Capital Pontiac Buick in Regina, he was told the dealership was eliminating his position and that, since he had the least tenure among his group, he was losing his job. However, when Coppola tried to start his own business a few months later, his prospective business partner was told by one of the staff at Capital Pontiac that Coppola was fired because a car had gone missing and hinted that Coppola was at fault.

The allegation that Coppola had engaged in misconduct affected him greatly. Coppola’s new business venture was delayed and he claimed that he was emotionally devastated, although he never went to see a doctor. Coppola sued his old employer for wrongful dismissal, based on the false allegations — and recently he was awarded additional damages based on the manner of his dismissal, even though there was no precise manner to calculate his alleged loss.

What is important is that the court did not hesitate to award Coppola damages for his ex-employer’s shoddy behaviour, even though he could not specifically show how it affected him. This is a welcome development in workplace law demonstrating that an otherwise garden variety dismissal will rebound poorly on an employer if it engages in misbehaviour when terminating its employees.

► Flames lose third straight in Calgary on heels of eight-game winning streak at Saddledome

Jiri Hudler scored the go-ahead goal at 11:29 of the third period Tuesday night as the Detroit Red Wings beat the Calgary Flames 3-1.

Flames defenceman Chris Butler lost his balance and fell inside the Calgary blue-line, allowing Valtteri Filppula to wheel around him and carry the puck deep. Filppula's centring pass caromed off the side of the net and went right to Hudler, who had an empty net to shoot at with Miikka Kiprusoff trapped out of position.

Drew Miller made it a two-goal cushion four minutes later, converting a pretty goal mouth pass from Danny Cleary.

Jimmy Howard made 28 saves for his league-leading 31st victory. It was a solid bounce-back outing for Howard, who was pulled after the first period in his last game before the all-star break after surrendering four goals on 12 shots.

Cory Emmerton also scored for Detroit (34-16-1).

Penguins hopeful Crosby will return this season

Sidney Crosby's latest concussion-related layoff may not be a concussion after all, but rather a more-treatable neck injury that went undiagnosed for weeks if not months.

After meeting with specialists on both U.S. coasts during the last week, the Pittsburgh Penguins captain was told he has a soft tissue injury that is causing swelling in his top two vertebrae. Multiple doctors agreed there is no fracture.

While another concussion has not been ruled out, Crosby was told the neck that Crosby and the Penguins want than for this to be the end the a medical nightmare.

"From what I've been told, this is something pretty commonly linked with concussion symptoms, and in a way that's encouraging," Crosby said. "There's no magic to get rid of it but, if this is contributing, this is something we can obviously treat and work on and hopefully it will go away."

If the neck treatment proves successful, Penguins general manager Ray Shero is hopeful that Crosby can return later this season to Penguins lineup.

Shero emphasized that no doctor — and numerous physicians and specialists have been consulted — believes the problem might be career-threatening.

"There's been no indication from any doctor where he would have to shut it down for the season or retire," Shero said. "We're going to try to manage these symptoms and get them under control and get a handle on this and get him back on the ice."

Fiat 500c (Cabrio)

The 500c (Cabrio) is, depending on your viewpoint, either a convertible or a regular 500 with a giant power-operated roof. In 15 seconds, the two-ply cloth top folds accordion-style, leaving the roof pillars and side glass in place.

Sure it's quirky, but that's how it was originally done on the 1950s 500. As well as leaving your coiffure in tact, Fiat claims that the fixed side pillar design is far more rigid than open-air convertible designs.

The Cabrio features a buzzy 101-horsepower 1.4-litre four-cylinder engine that delivers at least adequate acceleration whether connected to a five-speed manual transmission, or optional six-speed automatic.

Fiat 500 Abarth

More performance assistance is on the way with the mid-2012 launch of the Fiat 500 Abarth. The model is named for Karl Abarth, who successfully tuned the original 500 for racing use (Abarth was to Fiat what John Cooper was to Mini).

The Abarth arrives with a turbocharged version of the 1.4 that makes 160 horsepower and 170 pound-feet of torque.

Also part of the package is a five-speed manual gearbox, sport-tuned suspension and exhaust, beefier brakes, special Abarth alloy wheels (in 16-, or optional 17-inch sizes), distinctive nosepiece and rear spoiler plus specific interior/exterior trim.

BASE PRICE:
$17,400

► Behold the Fiat 500 Abarth, in both white and black. The 500 is a small car with a small price tag, but it also makes an interesting style statement.

Can a small car really be mighty?

MALCOLM GUNN
DRIVE@METRONEWS.CA
WHEELBASE MEDIA

How could it miss, really?

A cute, fun and economical car with Italian heritage at a base sticker price of just $17,000?

Well, it hasn't missed, exactly, but it has been a bumpy ride for Chrysler's Italy-based offshoot as it attempts to carve out a decent-sized slice of a rather small niche-market pie.

Now there's a new marketing boss and two new models to help reach an aggressive North American target of 50,000 cars a year.

But is it enough? And do North American buyers get it?

Fifty-plus years ago, the Volkswagen Beetle charmed North Americans with quirky styling and a highly effective ad campaign that, like the rear-engine, air-cooled car itself, broke all the rules. Since then, lightning has yet to strike twice, although the resurrected Mini Cooper in all its iconic glory has been more than moderately successful.

On these shores, the 500's heritage is far less appreciated, but at least the car delivers on the cute-and-cool factor. Of course, a spike in gas prices would really help to light a fire under the 500's sales chart.

For the 2012 model year, two new versions of the Fiat 500 await your consideration — the 500c (convertible) and the performance-minded Abarth.

With both versions appealing to a wider audience, it will be easier for Fiat to sell you on the idea of the 500, but keep in mind the small-car pie is still small in North America.

► The colour-coordinated dash panel makes the interior feel wider than it really is.

2012 Fiat 500

What you should know about the 2012 Fiat 500:

- Types: Two-door, front-wheel-drive sub-compact hatchback/convertible.
- Engines (hp): 1.4-litre

DOHC I4 (101); 1.4-litre DOHC I4, turbocharged (160).

- Transmission: Five-speed manual; six-speed automatic (opt., except Abarth).
- Market position: Sub-compacts currently occupy an equally tiny percentage of the automotive landscape. The Fiat 500, along with new entries from General Motors and Toyota, indicates this category is definitely on the rise.

- Mileage: L/100 km (city/hwy) 6.7/5.1 (MT).

VEHICLE HAPPINESS POSSIBLE EVERY DAY

DAVE HOGAN/GETTY IMAGES

► Who says you need an Aston Martin Vanquish to be happy, like Mr. Bond over here? Be content with what you have and try to enjoy the little things in your driving life.

AUTO PILOT

MIKE GOETZ
DRIVE
@METRONEWS.CA

Some motoring circumstances will always give you a smile. Going flat out at the Nuburgring in a Porsche 911 GT3? Cruising the strip in a 1966 Mustang convertible? Drifting sideways in a Skyline GT-R? Pulling up to your high-school reunion in an Aston Martin Vanquish? Driving away from the dealership in your first new vehicle?

Those experiences are all well and good, but not everybody has access to expensive, or even inexpensive, machinery. And stellar occasions like that don't come up every day.

So if we're looking to add a bit more happiness to our lives every day, and we should, then maybe we should reconsider some of the smaller motoring moments, which can happen to us each and every day.

These moments might be small, but that doesn't mean they're insignificant. Vehicular happiness, like general happiness, is always somewhat fleeting anyways.

Here are a few examples of what I'm talking about...

• You just backed into a tight parking spot on a street, but unfortunately your rear bumper contacted the other car. You get out of the car like nothing happened, and nonchalantly stroll by, trying not to look like you're looking too hard at the other guy's bumper. No obvious marks! Yes!

• Your keys fall under the seat. While searching for them you come across a half-eaten pizza sub — but also the Pantera CD you thought was lost forever, and three toonies! Yes!

• You're doing 115 km/h in a 100 km/h zone. You pass a police cruiser on the side of the road. You stare at the cruiser in your rear view, and apply telekinetic brainpower to lock the cruiser in its stationary position. It's working! Yes!

• You try your usual parking spot first, because it's usually free. But this time it's not. So you circle closer to your actual destination, but with a heavy heart, knowing those spots are the first to go and always fully booked.

But there it is! An open spot right in front of your destination!

The perfect Costanza! Yes!

• You need a bathroom break and are forced to stop at a shady gas station. You're expecting no facilities, or third-world facilities, or facilities that require a key attached to something really long, like a shovel... But the facilities are vacant, welcoming and gorgeous! Yes!

• You run a yellow light. You feel guilty/bad. But the two cars behind you also ran the light. You're bad, but not as bad as them. There are drivers worse than you! Yes!

These are but a sampling of potential small moments of happy motoring at your disposal. Embrace them and others. Do not let them slip away forever into the heating and air-conditioning vents.

They might be all you're going to get for a while.
